Washington—Cigarette, Alcohol & Miscellaneous Taxes—Washington Supreme Court grants stay of lower court ruling on capital gains tax.

The Washington Supreme Court unanimously granted a stay of the Washington Superior Court's order holding that the state capital gains tax is unconstitutional because it violates both the uniformity and limitation requirements of the state constitution (previously reported in State Tax Update, 03/04/2022). The capital gains tax may be enforced while the court considers whether the tax violates the state constitution. (Quinn, et al. v. State of Washington, et al., Wash. S. Ct., Dkt. No. 100769-8, 11/30/2022.)
